

Using Reach to Review Individual Services

Reach is still the only commonly used means to determine the quality of Supported Living. It is used by many Supported Living services across the UK, and indeed across the globe. Many people are using Reach to great effect; this workshop offers users of Reach a unique opportunity for specific teaching in how to use it.

Aims

This one day workshop is aimed at people who want to use Reach to evaluate individual Supported Living services.

Our aim is to build people's confidence, familiarity and skills in using Reach, so they can successfully conduct an individual Reach review.

Prerequisites

Participants in this workshop need to have purchased a copy of Reach (available from www.paradigm-uk.org) and be intending to conduct an individual review in the near future.

Participants attending the workshop may choose to have a laptop with them, running the electronic version of Reach.

Topics Covered

- Principles of Supported Living
- Using the electronic version of Reach
- Using the paper version of Reach
- Using Reach to effect change
- How Reach fits with Self-Directed Support
